FOREWORD

The tenth volume of the Proceedings of the Medico-Legal Society of Victoria is published only one year after the ninth volume, but contains the papers read before the Society in the past three years. The Editors are able at last to report that this volume of the Proceedings is up to date.

The papers published cover a very wide variety of topics but this volume includes some important contributions on the assessment of damages for injury. The paper read by Dr. Henry Miller of Newcastle-upon-Tyne has been supplemented by reprinting as an appendix to this volume his Milroy Lectures delivered in 1961 before the Royal College of Physicians of London. For permission to reprint these lectures we acknowledge our gratitude to the Editor of the British Medical Journal.

This volume begins with a paper by another distinguished English visitor, Dr. Rupert Cross, which had been omitted from the last volume of the Proceedings.

For abridging the discussion on all papers the Editors accept responsibility.
